TERMS OF USAGE

4.1. Liability

The User may only use the website at their own risk and acknowledges that the Service Provider shall not be liable for any pecuniary or non-pecuniary damages arising from the use, beyond liability for intentional, grossly negligent, or criminal conduct, as well as breach of contract that harms life, physical integrity, or health.

The Service Provider disclaims all liability for the conduct of users on the website, and the User is fully and exclusively responsible for their own conduct.

The User must ensure that their use of the website does not directly or indirectly infringe upon the rights of third parties or violate laws and regulations.

The Service Provider is entitled, but not obliged, to review content made available by users during the use of the website (e.g., comments), and with regard to published content, the Service Provider is entitled, but not obliged, to search for signs of unlawful activity and shall not be liable for such activities.

4.2. Copyrights

The entire content of the website (texts, images, graphical elements, etc.) is protected by copyright, therefore, copying, modifying, or distributing it for commercial purposes is prohibited!

SHOPPING ON THE WEBSITE

5.1. Order Process

The website provides users with product presentation and online ordering options. Users can navigate through the website using menu options. Products are categorized for easier browsing. Newly released products can be found under the "New Products" menu.

By clicking on the category name, users can view the list of products within it. If all products in a category cannot fit on one page, users can navigate through pages using numbers above and below the products. By clicking on the name of a product in the list, users can access the detailed product page to learn about its features and price.

The website also allows users to search for products based on keywords. Search results matching the search criteria are displayed in a list similar to the categories.

Users can add selected products to their cart by clicking the "Add to Cart" button, and they can specify the desired quantity next to the button. Users can review the contents of their cart and make modifications, such as adjusting quantities or deleting items, using the "Cart" menu. The "Empty Cart" button allows users to clear the entire cart. By clicking the "Order" button, users can proceed with the purchasing process.

During the ordering process, users need to provide the following information: email address, name, phone number, billing address, and, if different, the shipping address. Registration requires providing a password in addition to the aforementioned data. Users receive confirmation of successful registration via email and can also check on the website. Users can request the deletion of their registration via email, in which case they would need to register again for future purchases. Users are responsible for keeping their access data confidential. Users are also responsible for updating their data and must inform the Service Provider if they become aware of any misuse of their data by a third party. In case of a forgotten password, users can request a new password to be sent to their registered email address. If users have previously registered on the website, they can proceed with the ordering process by providing their email address and password.

As the next step of the ordering process, users must select their preferred payment and delivery method. Users can review all previously provided data, as well as the selected products and their quantities, on a summary page. Data input errors can be corrected using the pencil icon. If everything is correct, users can finalize their order by clicking the "Send Order" button. Confirmation of the order is received on the website and via email. Any incorrect data noticed after the order is placed must be reported to the Service Provider immediately, but no later than within 24 hours of order confirmation (e.g., in the confirmation email).

Regardless of the intention to place an order, users can log in through the "Customer Login" window or the "Login" menu. After logging in, users can access a "Modify Data" menu where they can update their registration data and track the details and status of their placed orders.
